Editorial

During the period since the last issue of the Newsletter, our Centre hosted both administrative and academic meetings related to the various fields of its mandate. The first meeting was the twenty-second session of the Governing Board of IRCICA. The Board is comprised of nine specialists appointed by the OIC Member States on basis of their authority in the Centre's fields of activities, together with the Secretary General of the OIC or his representative and the Director General of IRCICA. The countries currently represented in IRCICA's Governing Board are Egypt, Jordan, Kuwait, Malaysia, Qatar, Saudi Arabia, Senegal, Turkey, and the United Arab Emirates. In this session, the Board reviewed and approved the Centre's activity report for 2007 and its proposed work plan for 2008 before their adoption by the Member States at the next session of the Islamic Conference of Foreign Affairs Ministers. The meeting of the Board, particularly its opening ceremony that was followed by the press and an interested audience, was an excellent opportunity to highlight the diverse aspects of our present activities: recent symposiums, publications, and especially the two major long term projects undertaken by the Department of Architecture of IRCICA since last year, namely the "Prince Sultan bin Selman Data Bank of Islamic Sites and Monuments" and the "Al-Quds 2015" program of studies and architectural workshops.

A last part of the opening ceremony was devoted to the presentation of calligraphy diplomas (Ijaza) to trainees from various countries having successfully completed the courses coordinated by IRCICA since last year. Previously, on the occasion of Centre's 25th Anniversary commemorated in November 2005, a number of calligraphy diplomas were presented to six calligraphers from five countries. This time, thirteen calligraphers from seven countries received diplomas. This raised the total number of calligraphers having received diplomas through the Centre over the past decades to fifty-five persons from twenty-two countries.

We had the pleasure of taking part in the cultural program titled "Saudi Arabia Cultural Days" which was organised jointly by the Governments of the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia and the Republic of Turkey during the last week of October. On this occasion we hosted a series of lectures which were followed with interest by a learned audience. During the same period, the visit of the Minister of Culture and Information of the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia Mr. Iad Madani gave us the opportunity to define some new projects to be undertaken jointly by the Ministry and IRCICA in the near future.

The congress on "Egypt in the Ottoman Era", held during the last week of November, brought together sixty-three participants from eleven countries and from Egypt itself. It was the third congress of IRCICA to be devoted specifically to the period of the Ottoman State, after the congresses on "Learning and Education in the Ottoman State" (on the occasion of the 700th anniversary of the Ottoman State, Istanbul, 1999) and "Bilad al-Sham in the Ottoman Era" (Damascus, 2005). We include in this issue news of the congress and a list of the papers presented. The latter will be collected in a book, which we expect to publish in 2008.

A major scholarly event, next in this series of congresses, is the international congress on "The Second Constitutional Period/Meşrutiyet on its Centenary" to be held in Istanbul on 7-10 May 2008. Another event scheduled for 2008 is related to our Craft Development Program: an international congress on "Employment of Traditional Handicrafts in Architectural Projects" will be held in Tunis, on 2-7 June.

Lastly, I would like to announce that by decision of IRCICA's Governing Board, the application period of the competition for the Prince Faisal bin Fahd Award for the Preservation of Islamic Architectural Heritage has been extended, in order to make a new call for participation especially from regions from where no applications were received. Interested parties can find information on the competition in this issue of the Newsletter.

Prime Minister Erdoğan received the copy of the Holy Quran published by IRCICA

H. E. Mr. Recep Tayyip Erdoğan, Prime Minister of Turkey, inaugurated the newly renovated "Holy Relics" Section of Topkapı Palace Museum in Istanbul, on 29 December 2007. The opening was also attended by the Minister of Culture and Tourism Mr. Ertuğrul Günay, the Minister of Public Works and Settlement Mr. Faruk Nafiz Özak, the Minister of Environment and Forestry Mr. Veysel Eroğlu, the Governor of Istanbul Mr. Muammer Güler and the Metropolitan Mayor of Greater Istanbul Mr. Kadir Topbaş. Prime Minister Erdoğan delivered a comprehensive address, in which he underlined that all heavenly religions and beliefs uphold righteousness, justice and compassion. He said that the collections of the Holy Relics section represent a spiritual treasure which gives Istanbul and Turkey the greatest pride to be the keeper; this treasure inherited from the three major heavenly religions is of inestimable value. The Prime Minister said that the sacred relics of Prophet Mohammed and many other prophets kept in this section will enlighten the hearts of believers not only at present but also for the future generations; the gifts our ancestors sent to the holy places during centuries reflect the importance they gave to culture, to arts and artisans. "The door of the Kaba is here. The locks of the Kaba are here. It would be a big mistake to consider and to picture this history as bygone history. This place is not only a museum but the abode of a living civilization. ... As a reward for loyalty to this legacy, for centuries Istanbul was the capital of our civilization. In this capital not only Muslims but the adherents of all beliefs lived in safety and security. ... This place houses symbols of the search for eternal truth, history of mankind, and the sacred cause that gives humankind it humanness. Following the address of Prime Minister Erdoğan, Dr. Halit Eren, Director

General of IRCICA presented the Prime Minister with one of the latest publications of IRCICA, consisting of a facsimile edition of the copy of the Quran which is attributed to the time of Caliph Othman, the third caliph. The original copy is kept in the Topkapı Palace Museum. The edition and the accompanying scholarly study by Dr. Tayyar Altıkulaç were published by IRCICA in 2007. Mr. Ertuğrul Günay, Minister of Culture and Tourism of Turkey, Mr. Orhan Düzgün, Director of Museums, and Prof. İlber Ortaylı, Director of Topkapı Palace Museum, also gave addresses.

The relics include personal articles and garments which belonged to Prophet Mohammed and other prophets and to the companions of Prophet Mohammed. The section also houses keys and locks of the Kaba, rare manuscripts, and containers and wrappers in which the objects were carried from Mecca and Medina to Istanbul. These objects of great religious significance are also excellent works of art. Following the conquest of Egypt by Sultan Selim I in 1517, the Caliphate passed on to the Ottomans; so were the keys of Mecca and the relics relating to the Kaba. Some of the relics were transported to Istanbul, the seat of the Caliphate, and some others were placed in the tomb of Prophet Mohammed. Precious gifts, new curtains and keys for the Kaba were sent every year from Istanbul and from other regions of the Muslim world. Thus the number and variety of the holy relics relating to the Kaba increased continuously over the centuries. Those relics to be brought to Istanbul were meticulously registered and delivered to the officials in charge of transferring them. They were preserved with utmost care and respect for centuries. The holy relics were opened for public view in 1962.

International congress on "Egypt during the Ottoman Era" held in Cairo, organised by IRCICA and the Supreme Council of Culture, Ministry of Culture of Egypt

26-30 November 2007

IRCICA and the Supreme Council of Culture attached to the Ministry of Culture of the Arab Republic of Egypt have jointly organised the congress on "Egypt during the Ottoman Era" which was held in Cairo, on 26-30 November 2007.

The opening session at the Opera House in Cairo heard the message of the Secretary General of OIC H.E. Prof. Ekmeleddin İhsanoğlu, which was read by Mr. Qasim Al-Masry, Advisor at the OIC General Secretariat, and the message of the Minister of Culture of Egypt H.E. Mr. Faruk Hosny which was read by Mr. Ali Abu Shadi, Secretary General of the Supreme Council of Culture. Then, the Director General of IRCICA Dr. Halit Eren addressed the session, followed by a keynote paper by Prof. Raouf Abbas from Egypt, a senior historian of the Ottoman period.

The same day, an exhibition titled "Egypt in the Ottoman Documents" which was prepared by the General Directorate of State Archives of Turkey, Department of Ottoman Archives, was opened. This event was officiated by: Ambassador Şafak Gökçürk, Ambassador of Turkey in Egypt; Dr. Halit Eren; Mr. Ali Abou Shadi; Mr. Halilullah Özcan, Deputy Director General of State Archives, and Mr. Cevat Ekici from the Archives.

In his message, the Secretary General of the OIC expressed his pleasure to see this congress convene on the theme of the Ottoman period in Egypt, one that deserves much scholarly attention and objective research. The rich and long history of Egypt always drew wide interest and filled the library shelves around the world. There is no university that does not cover at least one aspect of it. However, the Ottoman period was not as fortunate in this regard as the periods before and after it. The beginning of modern historical writings in the 1930s coincided with political and ideological factors which affected the interpretation of Ottoman history in a way that it appeared in school books as the worst period in Egypt. Some orientalist saw in it a dark age similar to that of medieval Europe. Some overlooked the successive changes in the balance powers between the east and the west throughout history. They forgot that during the geographical and maritime expeditions European fleets reached the southern Muslim lands striving to take control of the Red Sea and the Arab Gulf; that Western powers competed to spread their influence over the Arab East.

These and many other historical facts were not taken into consideration. However, now with the refinement of research methodology, we know that the history of Egypt in the Ottoman era cannot be understood without taking into consideration Ottoman history in general and the Ottoman context in the Mediterranean region which provided for wide commercial and cultural exchanges and made of Egypt in that period a centre of activities in all fields. The Secretary General said that today the two nations, Turks and Egyptians continue to be linked together with a history they shared in the midst of many successive events of world politics and stood side by side in political struggles and cultural processes. In his message to the congress, the Minister of Culture of Egypt Mr. Faruk Hosny said that the Ottoman period in Egypt which lasted four centuries minus three years (1517-1914) will always be the object of studies. That was the period when Egypt was under the rule of the caliphate; after abolition of the latter and proclamation of independence the strong bonds linking the Turkish and the Egyptian peoples remained intact. Further research needs to be devoted to the theme of "Egypt during the Ottoman Era" in order to discover, among others, in which areas the Egyptian and Turkish societies influenced each other during those four centuries. The Minister expressed the hope that the congress would foster studies in history, economics, politics and other social sciences focusing on Egypt during the Ottoman period as a specific subject area within their disciplines. Dr. Eren expressed his appreciation of the productive cooperation existing between the Government and the academic and cultural institutions of Egypt on one hand and IRCICA on the other and which had been growing since the earliest years of the Centre. This cooperation is manifested both at the institutional level and in joint activities. Egypt is represented in the ten-member Governing Board of IRCICA, by Prof. Abdul Hafez Helmy Mohammad, Vice-Chairman of the Board. A number of Ministers and other statesmen from Egypt visited the Centre over the past years. As to cooperation in the activities, a symposium on "Traditional Crafts in Islamic Architecture: Mushrabiyya and Stained Glass" was organised jointly by the Ministry of Culture of Egypt and IRCICA, in Cairo, in December 1995. A large number of researchers, artists etc. from Egypt participated in the events organised by IRCICA. Furthermore, four publications by the Centre are about Egypt: the album Egypt As Viewed in the Nineteenth Century (2001), Islamic Monuments of Cairo in the Ottoman Period (by Mohamed abu'l Amayem, ed. by Ekmeleddin İhsanoğlu, 2003), Turkish Cultural Traces in Egypt (by Ekmeleddin İhsanoğlu, 2003), and The Turks in Egypt and their Cultural Heritage: Bibliography of the Printed Turkish Culture from Mehmed Ali Pasha to Our Time and an Evaluation (by Ekmeleddin İhsanoğlu, 2006).

The opening ceremony heard the comprehensive message of H.E. Mr. Ertuğrul Günay, Minister of Culture and Tourism of the Republic of Turkey which was read by H.E. Mr. Mustafa Büyük, Undersecretary of the Ministry. The Consul Generals of the Member States accredited in Istanbul were present.

The Minister pointed out that creating affinities between nations by bringing forth the notions of common history and common heritage constitutes a most direct and beneficial way of building cooperation and solidarity in international relations. IRCICA's contributions to this end fulfil a historical mission. The Minister affirmed the Centre of the Turkish Government's continuous support.

The Secretary General of the Organisation of the Islamic Conference Prof. Ekmeleddin İhsanoğlu said, in his address, that IRCICA as the cultural subsidiary of the OIC has been fulfilling its mission in an increasingly effective way through authentic activity programs reflecting the true features of Islam, the development of its civilization and the cultural exchanges it generated between nations and civilizations of the world. Prof. İhsanoğlu said that these activities contribute to cultural solidarity among the OIC Member States while at the same time they open channels for cultural dialogue between Muslim countries and other nations and communities. This contribution of IRCICA serves at the same time the objectives set forth in the Ten-Year Program of Action of the OIC adopted by the Third Extraordinary Summit Conference held in Makkah in December 2005 which stresses the need to correct misjudgments about Islam, reflect its true image, disseminate respect for cultural diversity and combat Islamophobia. The Secretary General expressed his gratitude to H.R.H. the Chair and the distinguished members of the Governing Board. He congratulated the members of IRCICA, particularly the Director General, for their achievements.

A special section in the last part of the ceremony was devoted to the presentation of Ijaza in the art of calligraphy (certificates of qualification) by three teachers of calligraphy, namely Hasan Çelebi, Davut Bektaş and Ferhat Korlu, to thirteen calligraphers from seven countries (Egypt, Iraq, Kuwait, Spain, Syria, Turkey and the United Arab Emirates) whom they had trained in various styles of writing, in courses coordinated by IRCICA during 2006 and 2007 (see IRCICA Activities section).

During the working sessions, Dr. Halit Eren presented a report outlining the activities undertaken by the Centre during 2007 and the proposed work program for 2008. The Board adopted the activity report and the proposed work program. It expressed its satisfaction regarding the progress made by the Centre in research, publications, studies in various fields and the symposiums, conferences and exhibitions which were held on its premises or in the member countries. The Board also expressed its satisfaction of the various projects implemented by the Centre in cooperation with the cultural and academic institutions within and outside the member countries. The members of the Board commended the steps which were taken by the Centre in view of its future activities which opened new avenues for the latter.

The Board expressed its deep appreciation of the allocation to the Centre, by the Government of Turkey, of the Silahane (Armoury) building within the Yıldız Palace complex, which will house the electronic library to be established by the Centre; it lauded the generous support extended by H.H. Sheikh Mohammed bin Rashid al-Maktoum, Vice - President and Prime Minister of the United Arab Emirates and Emir of Dubai, towards this project.

During the sessions, the Board members were briefed by Prof. Arch. Amir Pasic, Head of the Department of Architecture of IRCICA, on two major projects, namely the Data Bank of Islamic Sites and Monuments and the "Al-Quds 2015" program of architectural studies and workshops. The Board expressed its gratitude to H.R.H. Prince Sultan bin Selman for the generous contribution brought towards the Data Bank. It underlined the importance of the ten-year program "Al-Quds 2015" carried out by IRCICA and expressed its wishes of success to the Centre in its implementation.

The Board commended the publication by the Centre of the copy of the Holy Quran attributed to the time of Caliph Othman bin Affan taking note of the high quality of the edition, expressing its gratitude to H.H. Sheikh Dr. Sultan bin Mohammed al-Qassimi, member of the Supreme Council of the United Arab Emirates and Emir of Sharjah, for taking charge of the printing expenses. The Board members exchanged views on various other activities of the Centre including: the IRCICA Award for Excellence in Research and the IRCICA Award for Patronage in the Preservation of Cultural Heritage and Promotion of Scholarship, both planned for 2008; participation in international fairs within and outside the Muslim countries; dissemination of the Centre's publications in universities around the world. The report and recommendations of the session will be presented to the Islamic Conference of Foreign Ministers of the OIC Member States.

The Islamic Conference of Ministers of Culture met on its Fifth Session in Tripoli, Libyan Arab Jamahiriya

12-14 November 2007

The Fifth Session of the Islamic Conference of Ministers of Culture was held under the high patronage of Muammar Al-Qaddafi, Leader of the Libyan Jamahiriya, on 21-23 November 2007. Tripoli was hosting the conference marking the city's designation, by the Islamic Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (ISESCO, a specialised institution of the OIC), as the Capital of Islamic Culture for 2007 for the Arab region. The Conference discussed six main issues on which ISESCO presented reports: the implementation of the Cultural Strategy for the Islamic World; activities in the fields of culture and communication; efforts in the fields of dialogue and cultural diversity as well as in refuting smear campaigns targeting Islam and Muslims, the follow-up of the implementation of the Islamic Cultural Capitals Program, its efforts in the field of the implementation of the Strategy for Islamic Cultural Action in the West, and in protecting the cultural and civilisational heritage in the Islamic world.

Trainees in calligraphy received their diplomas

19 October 2007

For over fifteen years IRCICA has been coordinating training courses in various fields of arts, particularly the art of calligraphy. Trainees from within and outside the OIC Member States are participating in these courses, mostly in Istanbul during the summer months, but also by correspondence at other times. The courses are taught by leading masters of this art. In conformity with traditional practice, successful trainees receive Ijaza (diploma, license or certificate of qualification) signed by their teachers and indicating the style of writing in which they were trained. Fifty-five calligraphers from twenty-two countries received diplomas through the Centre until now. Diploma ceremonies are organised for groups of trainees and placed generally within the framework of events hosted or organised by the Centre. Thirteen calligraphers - from seven different countries - who recently completed their training courses received their diplomas before the international audience from the OIC Member States, during the opening ceremony of the Twenty-second Session of IRCICA Governing Board held on 19 October 2007. The ceremony was held in the presence of H.E. Prof. Ekmeleddin İhsanoğlu, Secretary General of the OIC, H.E. Mr. Mustafa Büyük, Undersecretary of the Ministry of Culture and Tourism of Turkey representing H.E. the Minister Mr. Ertuğrul Günay, the heads of the Consular Missions of the OIC Member States in Istanbul, together with the Board's Chair H.R.H. Ambassador Dr. Wijdan al-Hashimi and distinguished members. Addressing the audience before then presentation of diplomas,

Director General Dr. Halit Eren said that IRCICA's activities cover a wide range of subjects, one of them "Islamic arts", and that within the latter calligraphy has a special place. He expressed pride that IRCICA won recognition world-wide as a focal point in this field. He said that this was made possible through the specially designed long-term programs which were established in the early 1980s by H.E. Prof. Ekmeleddin İhsanoğlu, Secretary General of the Organisation of Islamic Conference, who was the Director General of IRCICA from 1980 until the end of 2004. These programs aim to preserve this art in its classical styles, to encourage the performance and transmission of expressions of traditional spirit and creativity, such as most eloquently expressed in calligraphy and connected arts, and promote cooperation among calligraphers of the world. Dr. Eren explained that in this field the Centre organises competitions, exhibitions, conferences and training programs. The calligraphy competitions are held once every three years; the seventh competition in the series was finalised last April. As to the exhibitions, the Centre frequently organises calligraphy exhibitions on its premises and in various OIC member countries by displaying the award-winner works. Furthermore, it coordinates training courses for calligraphers from all over the world who wish to upgrade their skills in various styles of writing. Congratulating the calligraphers who were entitled to receive diplomas, he said that this was an important point in their careers in this art, since in the classical tradition the Ijaza delivered by the teacher is a license that certifies the IRCICA hosted a series of lectures within the framework of the "Saudi Arabia Cultural Days" program which was organised by the Governments of the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia and the Republic of Turkey through the Ministry of Culture and Information of Saudi Arabia and the Ministry of Culture and Tourism of Turkey. The program included:

- » "Saudi Arabian Literature - Thoughts", lecture by Dr. Ahmed Altami (23 October 2007);
- » "Handwriting Workshop: Experience of a Saudi Handwriter" by Mr. Naser Almaimun (24 October 2007);
- » "Dressing Ceremony of the Holy Qaba", by Mr. Nassir al-Harisi (25 October 2007);
- » "Developing relations between Saudi Arabia and Turkey", lectures by Dr. Ahmad al-Zaylai, Dr. Talal al-Shaban, Dr. Ibrahim al-Qarni (25 October 2007).

At the opening of the first lecture at IRCICA, Director General Dr. Halit Eren briefed the audience about the activities of IRCICA in general and the events it organizes with the aim of promoting international cultural relations in particular. In this regard, he recalled the Islamic Countries Cultural Week which was organised in 2005 on the occasion of the Centre's 25th anniversary, in which various Member States had participated with concerts, folkloric performances, academic lectures, and exhibitions of paintings and handicrafts. The kingdom of Saudi Arabia had contributed to all these aspects of the program. The Director General said that the Centre had also organized a Libyan Cultural Week in 2003, a Kyrgyzstan Cultural Week in 2006 and an Isfahan Cultural Week in 2007. He expressed his belief that the Saudi Arabia Cultural Days program was going to be a highly effective event in introducing various aspects of cultural, social and literary life in Saudi Arabia to the public through these scholarly lectures.

» In the first lecture, speaking on "Saudi Arabian Literature - Thoughts", Dr. Ahmed Altami presented a historical overview of Saudi Arabian literature from its beginnings up to the modern period. He said that the origins of Saudi literature can be traced back sixteen centuries. After the establishment of the Saudi Arabian state, literary publishing grew at a rapid pace. The press and periodicals became the focus of this literary movement. The lecturer pointed out that two main schools of literature developed: the representative of the first school was Ahmed Gazzawi, the greatest poet of traditional literature, while the main figure in the second school was Muhammad Surur al-Sabban. Young poets who followed Sabban's footsteps later formed the main branch of Arab literature. The poets who flourished in 1930s, 1940s and 1960s laid the foundations of poetry in later periods. They mainly dealt with topics such as love for one's motherland, national feelings, love of nature and human love. The modern school that covers the period until mid-60s introduced some changes both in the form and content of poetry, hence in the Arabic qasida. In this period one also sees the influences of surrealism and symbolism on Arab poetry. Dr. Ahmed Altami stated that women poets flourished after 1960s. Fawziya Abu Khalid is the first woman poet with a diwan (collection of poetry). The lecturer then focused on other forms of literature such as short stories and novels. Short stories existed since the time when the Tales of One Thousand and One Nights were written. They also started to appear along with poetry from 1920s onwards. Both man and woman writers gained renown. They generally used a symbolic language. The first novel that appeared in 1930s had a simple form. No other novel was produced until 1948 in this formative period. The novel became widespread starting from 1980s until the present day and nearly 400 novels were produced in this period. The authors mainly dealt with the transformation in Saudi society and social problems. Particularly the period after 1992 can be called "the era of the novel". At the end of his lecture, Dr. Altami focused on literary criticism and the development of literary institutions such as the literary club.

» In his lecture titled "Handwriting Workshop: Experience of a Saudi Handwriter", Mr. Naser Almaimun told the audience about his own experience as a calligrapher; his teachers, the training courses he received, and the contributions and guidance provided by IRCICA throughout this process.

» In his lecture on the "Dressing Ceremony of the Qaba", Nassir al-Harisi presented a historical account of the dressing ceremony of the Holy Qaba, showing slides of the ceremonies. He pointed out that no curtain covered the Qaba before the time of Prophet Ismael and different views exist as to by whom the curtain was used first. Following the conquest of Mecca, Muslims showed utmost care for this curtain. The same care was shown by the Four Caliphs, the Umayyads, the Abbasids and the Mamluks. During the Ottoman period particularly the Sultans Selim I and Suleyman the Magnificent established endowments for the maintenance of the Holy Qaba. The lecturer said that the Saudis also attached great importance to the curtains of the Holy Qaba. Mr. al-Harisi showed samples of curtains of the Holy Qaba, also known as burku or sitara, purses of keys of the Holy Qaba, and described the periods and conditions under which they were produced.

» Dr. Ahmad al-Zaylai, Dr. Talal al-Shaban and Dr. Ibrahim al-Qarni gave lectures on "Developing relations between Saudi Arabia and Turkey". In his lecture, Dr. al-Zaylai stated that it was mainly the western scholars who made archaeological excavations in Saudi Arabia about fourty years ago. Saudi scholars began to work in this field after 1940s. Some works from the Ottoman period were also discovered. He pointed out that King Saud University is working on the subject. Regarding the Islamic works in Mecca and the inscriptions in kufic script, the main archaeological sites were determined at the turn of the 1970s and some works were found. Umm al-Qura University is also undertaking excavations on the line between Mecca and Medina. Some inscriptions with Quranic verses were discovered.

Dr. Talal al-Shaban, who is a specialist of the architecture of the Ottoman period, spoke of the Ottoman buildings in the country. He pointed out that there are civilian, military and religious works in Mecca and Medina. Ottoman art contributed to the architecture of the Prophet's Mosque in Medina. The tulip motifs in this mosque are similar to those in the mosques in Istanbul, Bursa and Amasya in Turkey. The lecturer compared the architectural works in Konya, Istanbul, and Bursa with those in Medina. He stated that the works in Medina are less imposing - as to size and decorations. He also underlined the resemblance between the fortresses on the road to pilgrimage between Istanbul and Medina and the fortresses in Turkey. At the end of his lecture, Dr. Shaban underlined the contributions of Turks to Islamic architecture particularly in the 11th and 12th centuries. He also briefly focused on the famous Ottoman architect Sinan and his works.

Dr. Ibrahim al-Qarni, who teaches in the Department of Languages and Translation of King Saud University, talked about the efforts to encourage the teaching of eastern languages in Saudi Arabia. Turkish was chosen as a pilot language in this respect. Dr. al-Qarni informed the audience that the Center for European Languages and Translation was established in 1977, the Institute of Languages and Translation in 1991 and the Faculty of Languages and Translation in 1995. The Program in Turkish Language, which is a three-year program, was established in 1993. The program aims to admit 100 students next year. It contributes to the cultural cooperation between Turkey and Saudi Arabia through the exchange of instructors, as well as scholarships in graduate studies and publications.

Visit of H.E. Mr. Iad Amin Madani, Minister of Culture and Information of the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, to IRCICA and signing of a new Cooperation Agreement

24 October 2007

On the occasion of the "Saudi Arabia Cultural Days", H.E. Mr. Iad Amin Madani, Minister of Culture and Information of the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, and a delegation from the Ministry visited IRCICA on 24 October 2007. The Minister was already acquainted with the Centre's activities through earlier visits and contacts; in particular, he was a member of the entourage of The Custodian of the Two Holy Mosques King Abdallah bin Abdulaziz al-Saud during the King's visit to IRCICA on 10 August 2006 in company of the Prime Minister of Turkey H.E. Mr. Recep Tayyip Erdoğan. In this visit the Minister received information from Dr. Halit Eren on some recent progress in the activities.

During this visit, a Cooperation Agreement was signed between the Ministry of Culture and Information of Saudi Arabia and IRCICA, to further strengthen contacts and cooperation in their activities relating to cultural development, studies on cultural heritage and the promotion of cultural cooperation among the OIC Member States. In particular, the agreement determined the modalities of an exhibition of historical photographs of Saudi Arabia to be opened in Jeddah and then travel to various cities of the Kingdom. It will consist of photographs of the cities, sites and monuments of Saudi Arabia to be chosen from the Yıldız Palace archive collection which dates from the end of the 19th-beginning of the 20th century. Taking into consideration that this collection has a high documentary value, it is planned that the exhibition would display some eighty photographs but that more than twice as many would be reproduced in a catalogue to be published in relation with the exhibition. The Minister recorded his impressions in the Visitors' Book, as follows: «I am happy to visit the Research Centre for Islamic History, Art and Culture once again, together with my colleagues from the Ministry of Culture and Information, on the occasion of the Saudi Cultural Days organised in Turkey. Some of the activities held within this framework are taking place at the headquarters of IRCICA. We would like to renew our thanks for that and for the warm welcome and kind interest extended to us. The present visit has been an occasion to reach an agreement on organising an exhibition of historical photographs, drawn from the Centre's archives, to be held in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia. I pray to God that He may help the staff of this Centre, at their head H.E. the Director General Dr. Halit Eren, in implementing a wide range of projects towards the aim of promoting cultural development and strengthening culture in the Muslim world.»

IRCICA's participation in the 34th Session of UNESCO General Conference

16 October-3 November 2007

IRCICA participated in the 34th Session of the UNESCO General Conference which was held in Paris from 16 October to 3 November 2007. The address of the Director General of IRCICA Dr. Halit Eren at the General Conference was read by Dr. Nazih Marouf, Director of the Craft Development Program at IRCICA. In his address the Director General briefly described the activities of IRCICA with an emphasis on those fields of common interest for UNESCO and IRCICA. He reviewed the progress achieved in the cooperation between the two organizations, which, he said, had expanded after the signing of the memorandum of understanding for cooperation in 1996 and further after the revised and enlarged version of this memorandum signed in 2005. Dr. Eren referred to UNESCO's Resolution 33 C/5 Para. 05120 which was passed by the 33rd Session of the General Conference on 7 September 2005, foreseeing UNESCO's contribution for the establishment of a Training and Restoration Unit of Old Manuscripts at Süleymaniye Library in Istanbul as a project to be implemented in cooperation with UNESCO, IRCICA and the Ministry of Culture of the Republic of Turkey. Implementation of the project was activated following the memorandum of understanding which was signed on 29 November 2006 between the Government of Turkey, UNESCO and IRCICA. This project aims to enlarge the existing unit in the Süleymaniye Library and endow it with equipment suiting the modern standards. Conservation, preservation and restoration services and training facilities of specialists in these fields will be provided to the OIC member countries and archivists from other countries, especially from those where collections of Islamic manuscripts are found. The Director General also informed the conference participants on the Data Bank of the sites

Pointing out another aspect of the activities of cooperation, Dr. Eren recalled that as IRCICA is assigned to be the Focal Point of Cooperation for Arts, Crafts and Promotion of Heritage within the UN-OIC cooperation system, it will continue to cooperate and consult with UNESCO in the field of crafts development, in organising seminars, congresses and exhibitions, arranging exchanges of craft specialists and artisans. Among the joint activities already accomplished within this framework, he recalled the Seminar on "Arabesque in the Traditional Crafts of Islamic Countries" which was organised in Damascus in cooperation with UNESCO and the Ministry of Culture of Syria and the Seminar on "Creativity in Traditional Islamic Crafts" organised in Islamabad in cooperation with UNESCO and Lok Virsa, Ministry of Culture of Pakistan.

During the period of the UNESCO General Conference, Dr. Marouf representing IRCICA met with the representatives of the Member States of UNESCO and IRCICA. He also met with Mrs. Françoise Rivière, Assistant Director General for Culture, Mr. Ahmed Sayyad, Assistant Director General for External Relations, and the Director Generals of various departments and divisions of UNESCO.

Prince Faisal bin Fahd Award for the Preservation of Islamic Architectural Heritage: the competition continues

IRCICA launched a periodical award entitled the "Prince Faisal bin Fahd Award for the Preservation of Islamic Cultural Heritage". The first competition in the series is devoted to Architectural Heritage and titled the "Prince Faisal bin Fahd Award for the Preservation of Islamic Architectural Heritage". The competition aims at supporting the revival of Islamic heritage - preservation of monuments and giving them vital functions, either historical or modern. Subsequent competitions will be devoted to other themes concerning the preservation of Islamic cultural heritage.

The competition program is dedicated to the memory of the late Prince Faisal bin Fahd bin Abdulaziz al-Saud, who was the Chairman of the International Commission for the Preservation of Islamic Cultural Heritage (ICPICH), a subsidiary of the OIC which operated from 1983 until 2000 with IRCICA as its Executive Secretariat. The Commission was merged with IRCICA in 2000 following the demise of its Chairman and its activities were integrated into the work plans of IRCICA. IRCICA organised the present competition at the request of the Islamic Summit and Foreign Ministers Conferences asking that IRCICA dedicates a special activity to the memory of Prince Faisal bin Fahd in recognition of his remarkable services to the preservation of cultural heritage. The project was approved by the Member States of the OIC at the 32nd Islamic Conference of Foreign Ministers (Sana'a, Yemen Republic, June 2005). The competition was launched as of 2006.

The competition is open to projects completed during in the last five years and representing an outstanding contribution to the preservation of Islamic cultural heritage. Governmental and non-governmental organizations and individuals are invited to apply to the competition. Three equal awards will be presented to the best projects. An exhibition of the participating projects will be organized. The presentations should be in English, French or Arabic. As of December 2007 projects have already been nominated from sixteen countries; the application documents for eight projects have already been completed. The submission of the documents for the competition will be finalized by 30 July 2008 and on-line work of the Jury will be held during September-October 2008. The competition procedures are detailed below:

Project eligibility

The Award seeks out the broadest possible range of preservation interventions: restoration and social efforts are considered, as are contemporary design projects in corporation with historic sites and those demonstrating the use of appropriate technologies. Although no fixed criteria are imposed as to the type, nature, location, or cost of projects to be considered for the Award, eligible projects must be designed for or used by Muslim communities, in part or in whole, wherever they are located.

Application

Applications are the means for a first enrollment of projects. The identities of the applicants and the names of the projects will be kept strictly confidential. The first application is done by completing and returning the enclosed form to IRCICA or by filling-in the on-line form provided on IRCICA's website <http://ircica.org>.

Documentation

The owners/architects of projects enrolled will receive an Award documentation package which describes the standardized presentation requirements. In addition to submitting photographs, slides, and architectural drawings, architects are asked to complete a questionnaire pertaining to use, cost, environmental and climatic factors, construction materials, building schedule, and, more importantly, design concepts and each project's significance within its own context.

The seven-member international jury of the competition is composed of:

1. Professor Dr. Ekmeleddin İhsanoğlu, Secretary General, OIC (Honorary President of the Jury)
2. Dr. Halit Eren, Director General, IRCICA (Chairman)
3. Professor Dr. Saad A. al-Rashid
4. Professor Dr. Zeynep Ahunbay
5. Professor Dr. Gulzar Haider
6. Professor Dr. Attilio Petruccioli
7. Professor Dr. Saleh Lamei Mostafa

A total of $ 30.000 US will be awarded as three equal prizes to completed projects, for excellence in preservation of Islamic architectural heritage. Since the success of a winning project may be the product of efforts by diverse individuals, groups, and organizations, the Jury will consider, if necessary and applicable, apportioning prizes among the contributors - architects, other design and construction professionals, craftsmen, clients, and institutions - whom it considers most responsible for the success of each project.

The Ministry of Culture and Tourism of the Republic of Azerbaijan and IRCICA are planning to organise two festivals: the International Music Festival for OIC Member States and the International Tourism Film Festival for OIC Member States. The events will take place in Baku, Republic of Azerbaijan in September 2008.

The International Music Festival aims to involve the 57 member countries of the OIC to be represented through their traditional music ensembles. The program will be conducted in stages, by selecting one representative country from each region of the Muslim world at each stage until all countries are represented. For a week's time at each stage, the music ensembles will perform concerts at various venues in the city of Baku. The concerts will be accompanied by exhibitions. An Exhibition of Traditional Musical Instruments of the Member States and an exhibition of CDs and Cassettes of the Traditional Music will be part of the event.

»»» Exhibition by the Japanese calligrapher Mr. Fuad Kouichi Honda 16-30 November 2007

Professor Fouad Kouichi Honda is honorary member of National Calligraphers' Association in Egypt and President of Arabic Calligraphy Association of Japan. As a keen student of Islamic calligraphy, he participated in the second international calligraphy competition organised by IRCICA in 1990 and awarded an encouragement prize. Mr. Honda was also awarded an incentive prize in the third international calligraphy competition organized by IRCICA in 1993. He received his ijaza (diploma in Islamic calligraphy) from

Dr. Hiro Nao Matsutani, Consul General of Japan in Istanbul attended the opening

Calligrapher Hasan Çelebi in the year 2000. Professor Honda participated in various exhibitions held in Japan as well as other countries such as in Egypt, Iran, Kuwait, Malaysia, Oman, Qatar, Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates. He also participated in the "Ijaza Exhibition" and "Word into Art Exhibition" held in 2005 and 2006 respectively, in British Museum, London. His interest in this art was not only limited to producing calligraphic compositions. He has always been eager to make this unique art known in Japan by his publications. He is the translator of the Japanese edition of IRCICA's publication titled The Art of Calligraphy in Islamic Heritage. This work appeared in Japanese in Tokyo, in 1996. His work titled The Cosmos of Arabic Calligraphy: The Works of Fuad Kouichi Honda appeared in Japanese, English, and Arabic. Professor Honda expresses his feelings about calligraphy by the following words: "Arabic calligraphy is no longer the mere act of handwriting, but has become, like poetry, the means by which I express myself and my feelings. When I inscribe a line, I have the feeling that I am writing more than just a verse. I feel beauty surrounding me and an embodiment of my invisible internal world." Professor Honda states that he has always thought of the strokes of Arabic calligraphy as living beings not only because of their shapes, but also because of their process of reproduction. After one stroke comes to its end, another one is born and follows- just like our life is handed over to the next by means of reproduction. The calligraphic composition is an independent mass, which, according to Professor Honda, begins to move, as if it has a life of its own. This is just like numerous cells coming together and systematically composing a life-form.

The majority of the artist's works are inspired by nature and the cosmos as implied by their names. A total of twenty works were exhibited; some titles of his calligraphic works, which are all compositions of selected Quranic verses, are: The Clouds of Mercy (Surah ar-Rahman, 1-29); Light upon Light [Surah an-Nur (The Light), 35]; The Green Cosmos [Surah al-Baqarah, 255 (Ayah al Kursi)]; Nebula of Letters [Surah Ghafir (The Forgiver), 57-67]; The Spiral Nebula [Surah an-Naml (The Ant), 65-75]; Nebula of Letters Surah an-Nur (The Light), 35-46; The Clouds of the Night (Surah ar-Rum, 48-50); The Blue Mandala [Surah al-Hadid (The Iron), 1-6]; The Rose-Coloured Horizon (Surah at-Tariq and Surah al-A'la); and others. The ijaza (diploma of calligraphy) given to him by Mr. Hasan Çelebi in 2000 was also displayed in the exhibition.

The embroidery work is meticulously done on fine silk fabrics with gold and silver metallic threads. This exhibition was comprised of works by the following artists: Mukaddes Can, Zehra Çekin, Sema Çevik, Zehra Durmuş, Fatma Mete, and Hafize Özkaya.

On policy development, the Forum invited the countries to develop efficient national strategies enabling the realisation of economic value for Traditional Knowledge holders and offering opportunities for the economic exploitation of this knowledge. The Forum also recommended the collection, documentation and classification of data on traditional knowledge and establishment of data bases, enhancement of cooperation and exchange of expertise among countries; assistance in the realisation of a Pilot Project in this field for subsequent wider deployment; and, working towards the establishment, in each country, of public associations to deal with cultural heritage which would complement the work of government authorities in this field. A preliminary outcome of these preparations would be presented to the relevant Ministries of Member States for their comments on the Draft Law prior to its submission in its final form for adoption by the competent Council of Ministers of the League of Arab States. It was underlined that this work should take into consideration the national and regional specificities as well as specific needs and requirements and the need to integrate them into a single unified legal framework. The need to build on the experiences of other regional groups (Africa, Asian and Latin America) having taken measures in this area was also underlined. Relating to capacity building, the objective is to provide qualified staff and efficient institutions to collect, document and classify information on traditional knowledge and establishment of empirical databases to record this information. The Forum specified that this will involve action by national authorities concerned, towards increasing awareness of holders of traditional knowledge and encouraging them to present their assets for better preservation and subsequent economic exploitation, as well as towards urging research institutions to engage in studies on traditional knowledge. Besides, WIPO, ISESCO and other relevant organisations will provide "trainer-trainee" programs in the field of collection and documentation, provide expertise and technological assistance, including documentation systems, and follow up the results of fact-finding mission undertaken by WIPO in certain Arab countries.

History, historiography

- Gábor Ágoston, Guns for the Sultan: Military Power and the Weapons Industry in the Ottoman Empire, Cambridge University Press, 2005, xvi + 277 p.

This book primarily aims to understand the Ottoman weapons industry, the systems and modalities by which the sultans obtained their armaments. The major part of its contents focuses on the Ottoman armaments industry in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. This was a period characterised by siege warfare rather than by pitched battles in the Ottomans' confrontations with their adversaries. The supply of artillery and gunpowder was a significant element of success in these sieges.

The author, Professor Ágoston from Georgetown University's Department of History, has based the study on extensive research in the Turkish archives. He aims to explain the early success of the Ottoman Empire against Europe and its later failure in the military field. By a comparative approach, the author challenges some Eurocentric and orientalist views and provides new insights on the subject. He also demonstrates that the Ottomans were self-sufficient in weapons production well into the eighteenth century.

As noted by the author, the Turkish Archives have rich materials on the important sectors of early modern war industry such as Ottoman gun casting, saltpeter and gunpowder manufacturing. However, there is still a dearth of studies in this field. The work by Salim Aydüz on the Imperial Cannon Foundry and Cannon Casting Technology appeared recently (Ankara, 2006). The present book fills this gap and stimulates questions for further research.

- The Cambridge History of Turkey, Vol. 3: The Later Ottoman Empire, 1603-1839, Edited by Suraiya N. Faroqhi, Cambridge University Press, 2006, xx+ 619 p.

This third volume in the series titled The Cambridge History of Turkey is a comprehensive history of the later Ottoman period written by scholars from all around the world. The series comprises the following four volumes: Volume 1: Byzantium-Turkey, 1071-1453; volume 2: The Ottoman Empire as a World Power, 1453-1603; Volume 3: The Later Ottoman Empire, 1603-1839; Volume 4: Turkey in the Modern World. The contributors to Volume 3 are Suraiya Faroqhi, Wolf Hütteroth, Christoph K. Neumann, Carter Findley, Virginia Aksan, Linda Darling, Dina Khoury, Fikret Adamir, Bruce Masters, Madeline Zilfi, Minna Rozen, Edhem Eldem, Cem Behar, Tülay Artan, Hatice Aynur. The book covers the period from the death of Mehmed III in 1603 to the proclamation of the Tanzimat, the administrative reconstruction of the Ottoman State, in 1839. This period was marked by relative stability when the trade between the empire and Europe flourished, and, except for wartime, merchants and pilgrims traveled in relative security. However, tensions still existed between the ruling elite in Istanbul and their subjects in the provinces. This is one of the central themes in the volume.

Other chapters focus on social, religious and political groups, women, trade, rural life; music, art and architecture, literature. The history emphasizes the political, cultural and artistic accomplishments of the Ottomans in the post-classical period. It thus challenges traditional notions that the eighteenth century was a period of stagnation. It is an indispensable reference for researchers in Ottoman history.

- Jan Knappert, Swahili Culture, Studies in Swahili Language and Literature, New York: Edwin Mellen Press, 2005, Book One, vol. 5a, Book Two, vol. 5b

This excellent book presents a comprehensive study of the culture of the Swahili, the people who live along the coast of East Africa between Marika in the North and Mozambique in the south. This culture also spread to the islands along the Somali Coast. Swahili is the first language of the coastal population of East African Muslims who constitute the majority using Swahili as their literary and religious medium. People of the Northern Mozambique coast have their own language, but they use Swahili in Arabic script for the literary representation of their Islamic culture. The majority of the Muslim people of the East African interior use Swahili as a second language.

The book is both instructive and pleasant reading on myriad aspects of Swahili life including the geography, history and peoples, economic life, agriculture, arts and crafts, society, marriage and family law, religions, Swahili language, literature and scripts, prose, poetry, dance, songs, music and instruments, some diseases and remedies in Swahili culture, the relation between religion and healing in Africa, the calendar and Islamic festivities, an overview of Swahili astronomy and cosmology. Altogether, a rich language, a rich culture, many components of which such as music, painting and architecture are disappearing under the influence of modern technology and communications. The author, the well-known linguist Jan Knappert (1927-2005), was an authority on Swahili language and culture. His series of publications on the subject constitute an axis of research and literature in this field. In addition, he translated many literary works from Swahili. Knappert taught in Leuven and London, as well as several African universities. He contributed, together with Arthur Irvine, the Chapter 6 on African Languages in the UNESCO Publication The Different Aspects of Islamic Culture, Vol. 5 on Culture and Learning in Islam (2003), a volume published under the chief editorship of Ekmeleddin İhsanoğlu.

(Ottoman Administration in The Sudan in the Light of Archival Documents). Prepared by Uğurhan Demirbaş et al., Introduction by Halit Eren and Yusuf Sarıнай, translated by Salih Sadawi, IRCICA, 2007, xxxvi+447 p.+ 144 documents and maps (in Arabic)

This collection of the Ottoman archive documents was prepared for publication by archivists at the Department of the Ottoman Archives, Turkish Prime Ministry's General Directorate of the Ottoman Archives, namely Uğurhan Demirbaş, Ali Osman Çınar, Mücahit Demirel, Seher Dilber, Recep Karacakaya, Nuran Koltuk, Ümmihani Ünemlioglu, Kemal Gurulkan, Yusuf İhsan Genç. Its contents were translated into Arabic and published by IRCICA.

The documents reproduced in this book in their translation from Ottoman Turkish into Arabic are official decrees and registers of the Ottoman State concerning the parts of its territory which are included in modern-day Sudan. For example, a major part of the province of Habeş (Abyssinia) is within The Sudan today; therefore, archive registers concerning this important region are included in the book. The aim of this publication is to render these first-hand sources on the history of The Sudan accessible to readers in Arabic. The book is in two parts. The first part has an Introduction and a section titled "Sudan under Ottoman rule".

The Introduction gives brief information on the documents: Mühimmes (the series of registers for the imperial council), tapu tahrir defters (population and cadastral registers), name-i hümayuns (autographed orders of the Sultan), ruûs, vakfiye and nişan defters, fermans (firmans), hatt-ı hümayuns (imperial decrees), muahedenâmes (treaties), maps. There are also chronicles and memoirs. The documents reproduced in the first part deal mainly with state administration, the Indian Campaign of the Ottomans which took place with the purpose of protecting the rights of the Muslims in South Asia and on the shores of the Indian Ocean against the attacks of the Spanish and the Portuguese. Following this campaign, the Ottomans organized another campaign in middle Nile in order to protect the rights of the Muslims in this area and to secure their boundaries in Africa. Thus, the Ottomans established a sanjak and a short period afterwards an eyalet in part of present-day Sudan. It was called the province of Habeş.

The period from 1555 until the beginning of the 17th century marks the establishment and development stages of this province. A joint Egyptian and British administration was established in The Sudan on January 19, 1899, following the agreement signed between these two states. This agreement marked the end of the Ottoman sovereignty in the Sudan. The second part contains the transcriptions and facsimile reproductions of some important documents. The original Turkish edition will be published by the Department of Ottoman Archives of the Turkish Prime Ministry's General Directorate of State Archives.

Takvim-i Vekayi, the Official Gazette of the Ottoman Empire (published from 1831 to 1923), on DVD/CD

Takvim-i Vekayi, the Official Gazette of the Ottoman Empire, was published from 1831 to 1923. IRCICA made its reproductions available in the form of 11 DVDs and one CD. It is a valuable source of information for researchers in history whose subjects of interest relate to the second half of the 19th century. The gazette was issued with intervals, over three periods: 1 November 1831– 8-9 April 1880, 2139 numbers; 26 March 1891–14 May 1892, 283 numbers; 28 September 1908 – 4 November 1922, 4608 numbers. Thus 7030 numbers were published in total. The gazette not only announced the decisions of the State, but was also a medium of information on actual facts and events. - Ahmet Kavas, L'Enseignement islamique en Afrique francophone: Les Médersas de la République du Mali (Islamic education in French-speaking Africa: the Medersas of the Republic of Mali), IRCICA, Istanbul, 2003, vii+424 p; ill. (in French)

As early as the 14th century Mali, a great empire of the time, assumed a major role in introducing Islamic education in Africa. Timbuctu flourished in that period as an international centre where students from all corners of the continent were trained in Quranic sciences and the Arabic language. Other cities flourished around it, building a network of centres of learning which left an immense intellectual and written heritage. Later, the 18th and 19th centuries saw successive movements of revival in Islamic education. From the end of 19th century onwards, under the French administration, different types of schools were established: the secular public schools, the Islamic schools or medersas, and the Christian schools. Following the foundation of the Republic of Mali, the modern medersa system assumed a key role in Islamic education. This comprehensive book on the developments of the 20th century resulted from the author's doctorate thesis at the University of Paris-7-Denis Diderot, conducted under the advice of Prof. Jean-Louis Triaud. The research is based on in-depth studies in the archives of Mali and Paris. It covers the processes starting with the evolution of modern Islamic education in French-speaking Africa, especially the Quranic school of the colonial period which already existed before and continued to exist after this period, and deals in great detail with the present state of the medersas and Islamic education, with ample data on their activities, their curricula, their teachers and their students, and their cultural and social influences. The information provided on the medersas is not limited to those of Mali; those of Algeria, Senegal, Mauritania, and the attempts to establish a medersa in Guinea are examined as well. The chapters on the history of development and the present status of the medersas of Mali as a modernised Islamic institution make of this book an essential reference in its field.

- Sumiyo Okumura, The Influence of Turkic Culture on Mamluk Carpets, Islamic Art Series No. 11, IRCICA, 2007, 277 p., ill.

Carpets and rugs represent an important branch of the traditional arts and handicrafts of the Muslim world. They are studied by IRCICA in its programs relating to arts, handicrafts and history of arts. Within the framework of IRCICA's Craft Development Program, "Carpets and kilims" constitute one of the main categories of the awards for handicrafts of the Muslim world. Furthermore, IRCICA devoted one of its scholarly meetings to this theme exclusively: an international symposium was organized under the title "Traditional carpets and kilims in the Muslim world" jointly with the Ministry of Tourism, Leisure and Handicrafts of Tunisia, in 1999, and its papers were published by IRCICA as a book. The theme is also covered within the framework of the congresses IRCICA organises on arts and the history of arts, with respect to the diverse artistic, aesthetical and functional characteristics carpets acquired in different periods, at different places. As part of this history, the carpets used by the nomadic Turks in Central Asia were, beyond their functional usage, an art which they carried with them in their journey to different lands where they ruled from the tenth and eleventh centuries onwards. They influenced the Mamluk carpets, which constitute the theme of this book. The latter were renowned and most valued until the sixteenth century. This book by Dr. Sumiyo Okumura, a historian of art from Japan, is published by IRCICA. It is an extensive study of Mamluk carpets, their unique features and their evolution, with due regard to cross-cultural influences observable in this process. The author's technical analysis of twenty pieces out of to seventy-seven Mamluk carpets she included in the catalogue section of the book will be highly useful for researchers in the field. The study comes in an amply illustrated beautiful edition.

The book has forewords by: Mr. Recep Tayyip Erdoğan, Prime Minister of Turkey, the Secretary General of the OIC Prof. Ekmeleddin İhsanoğlu, the Mayor of Istanbul Metropolitan Municipality Arch. New Publication by IRCICA

Al-Mushaf Al-Sharif Attributed to 'Uthman bin 'Affan

(The copy at the Topkapı Palace Museum)

Prepared for publication by Dr. Tayyar Altıkulaç,

Preface by Prof. Dr. Ekmeleddin İhsanoğlu, İstanbul 1428 / 2007, Critical editions series; no. 2
(Introduction in Turkish, English and Arabic)

This book contains the critical edition of an original copy of the Holy Quran attributed to the time of Caliph Othman: this is the copy known as the "Othman (R.A.) Mushaf [Quran copy]" located in the Topkapı Palace Museum. The study on this particular copy and its preparation for publication have been done by a leading scholar in Quranic studies, ex-President of Religious Affairs in Turkey, presently Deputy in the Turkish Parliament, Dr. Tayyar Altıkulaç. Earlier, IRCICA had published two other historical copies of the Quran. One was the copy known as Fazıl Paşa Mushaf, written in the name of the Seljukid Sultan Tugrul Bey in 582/1186 and kept in Gazi Hüsrev Bey Library in Sarajevo, which was published by IRCICA in a facsimile edition. The second one was the first Quran copy to be printed in the Islamic world which was printed in Kazan, Tatarstan, in 1803; the copy was reprinted in İstanbul in 2005 at the initiative of the Municipality of Kazan, on the occasion of the millennium of Kazan City, following a technical revision by IRCICA in preparation for printing. The "Othman (R.A.) Mushaf" also known as the "Topkapı Mushaf" and kept at nr. H.S. 44/32 in the Museum, is one of the oldest manuscripts of the Holy Quran that reached to the present day. Dr. Altıkulaç has done a meticulous comparative study and technical analysis of the copy; the Introduction explains the method followed and the findings obtained. Dr. Altıkulaç further enriches this instructive text with information on the history of Quran copies and recitation of the Quran. With only two pages (23 verses) lacking, "Topkapı Mushaf" is the closest to the complete text of the Quran. As indicated in detail and with examples in the text of Dr. Altıkulaç, certain parts of the manuscript had become unreadable due to the effects of time. With patient and careful research, Dr. Altıkulaç was able to decipher these parts using certain criteria and signs and to reconstitute the original copy.

The funding for the printing of this book was provided by H.H. Sheikh Dr. Sultan bin Mohamed al-Qassimi, Member of the Supreme Council of the U.A.E. and Ruler of Sharjah. Publication of Dr. Tayyar Altıkulaç's work represents at the same time the concretisation of a goal which was formulated by Prof. Ekmeleddin İhsanoğlu in the early 1980s, to print an edition of the "Topkapı Mushaf", given the value and importance of this copy.
